Product: MemberPulse — Boutique Gym & Studio Member Retention Predictor

Target audience: Boutique Fitness Studio Owners (Pilates, CrossFit, and Martial Arts)

Hook

Have you ever noticed that some members stop coming to your gym weeks before they actually cancel their membership?

Think about it: a member who used to attend three times a week suddenly shows up once, then stops coming altogether. Wouldn't it be better to know something is wrong before they decide to leave?

That's exactly what MemberPulse is designed to do. We help gym owners keep up with changes in attendance and spot warning signs before it's too late.

Because losing a member doesn't always happen overnight. Sometimes, it starts with one missed class.

Problem

Currently, many gym owners only realize there's a problem when a member asks to cancel. By then, they may have already lost interest, changed their routine, or found another gym.

The problem is that staff can't keep track of everyone's attendance manually, especially when they manage dozens or hundreds of members.

This creates a bottleneck in the retention process. Owners struggle to figure out why attendance is dropping, and they often run out of time to reach out to inactive members.

As a result, gyms risk losing recurring revenue without understanding what went wrong or having a clear plan to turn things around..

Solution

That's why we came up with MemberPulse, a simple platform that tracks attendance patterns and helps gym owners identify members who may be losing motivation.

Here's how it works: when the system detects that a member's attendance has dropped significantly, it sends an alert to the team.

Instead of checking spreadsheets or waiting for a cancellation, staff can reach out with a friendly, personalized message.

Maybe the member needs a different class schedule, some extra motivation, or help getting back into their routine. MemberPulse helps your team spot the problem and work out the next steps before the member gives up.

Main Benefit

So, what does this mean for your business?

MemberPulse helps you save time, protect recurring revenue, and build stronger relationships with your members. By reaching out at the right moment, your team has a better chance of keeping members engaged.

And compared to traditional methods, you don't have to spend hours reviewing attendance records or guessing who might leave. The platform brings important warning signs together in one place, so your team can focus on taking action

What makes it different

What makes MemberPulse different is its proactive approach. Instead of reacting after a member cancels, it helps you step in when attendance starts to drop.

It's not just about tracking who shows up. It's about helping you understand when a member might need support.

Closing

MemberPulse: Spot the drop. Step in. Keep them moving.

Because keeping a member is better than winning them back.
